All the administrawith promptitude and regularity, and, if there is any discord in the working of the machinery, it is only because the utmost vigilance has been unable to ferret out all the traitors, in heart and intention, who cling to office as tenacious are dangerous in the entreme, for, like the ussassin who strikes with a smile upon his face, they hold on to office as the means of hetraying the Government. They are false to every impulse of bonor, and, with the oath to support the tiovernment resting upon their con sciences, they are ready to overthrow and destroy it. They are the miserable party backs who were trained and drilled in the school of Hoyd, Cobb, a Co., and who know no other standard of integrity than that low and degraded and debasing one which these prostituted traitors creeted while they were employing all the official power in their hands to give elliciency to rehellion. This will establish an almost continuous line from Rolla to the Mississippi behaw Cape Girardeau, flanked on the west by a cord in of military posts extending from the terminus of the Southwest Branch Ruilroad up the Missouri river above Jefferson City. Thus St. L. ni. and the State Capital will be amply proceeded from approach by way of the South, and, with the reinforcements constantly arriving, the Str's can undoubtedly be held against all coniers.—St. Louis Republican, 1st.

HEENAN AND THE CHAMPION BELT—Hts CHALLENGE Accepted by Mach—Jim Mace, wim recently whipped the Staleybridge Infaut, has replied to Heenan's challenge, and signifies his readiness to fight. He is ready to make a match for £200 to £500 per sils, either hefore or ufter his coming Eight with King. is in the bands of his friend Geo. Witkes, and it is said by him that he expects soon to be able to announce licenam's assent to the propositions of Mince, and the arrangement of the prefininaries. Illeenan challenged any main England for £2,600 (or $10,000), but Mice does not seem willing to accept so large a stake, and accuses licenan of bouncing. Hennan wants his expenses paid, if he fights in England, or will pay Mace's, if he comes to America. Mace say: "It is a rule of the English Prize Ring that the champion belt cannot be fought for ont of the United Kinghon."

The match is in a fiir way of being made up, and it is believed by sporting gentlemen, that, before the winter is over, licenan and Mace will have fought for and decided the ownership of the "belt."
